

"Do you know your Scouse from your Cockney? Your American from your Scottish? If you've ever wanted to master an accent for a role then this is the workshop for you."
Ian Cuthbert, actor and cabaret performer

TUESDAY 10th MAY 7pm FOR 7.30pm

ACCENTS FOR ACTORS

led by Ian Cuthbert

About Ian

Ian is an experienced actor and cabaret performer. He has enjoyed doing impressions, characters and accents for most of his life. He studied accent and dialect with the renowned vocal coach Stevie Rickard and has used a range of accents playing roles in Blood Brothers, Breaking the Code and Death of a Salesman. He has also perfected his knowledge by watching too many Hollywood films and British soap operas!

About the workshop

Ian will show you how to develop this useful skill which can often clinch roles at auditions. Using various techniques and role play, we will explore five key accents most in demand by theatre practitioners: Received Pronunciation (BBC standard English), Popular London (modern day Cockney), Liverpool, General American (standard US accent) and Scottish. Using a range of excerpts from plays and the phonetic alphabet Ian will show you how to develop an accent, alter the way you speak and change your voice. So whether you're an aspiring professional - or just want to have fun doing different voices and impressions - this workshop will have something of interest to you.
