A New Space for Streatham – Tudor Hall

Streatham Tate Library has been welcoming the Streatham community since 1890. With support from the Mayor's Outer London Fund, Lambeth Council intends to invest in the Streatham Tate Library, to ensure it can continue to welcome existing and new readers for many years to come. At DCA we are helping to plan the future of the Streatham Tate Library. Our main focus is the Tudor Hall, the building behind the Library, which will be brought back into use for the people of Streatham. Originally built as a schoolroom, the Tudor Hall offers floorspace of 16m by 7m and could comfortably seat up to 120 people, with a self-catering space created alongside the main hall.

We have been consulting with local community groups. Streatham Action and the Streatham Festival have offered to email this questionnaire out to their lists so that we can canvass the views of lots of people and get a sense of local priorities for Streatham Tate Library and particularly the Tudor Hall. If you have been sent this twice, that's because you are on both lists - apologies.

Please join in with this important conversation. Clicking on the link below will take you to an on-line questionnaire about the future of the Streatham Tate Library. It's quick and easy to complete. Please could you complete the questionnaire by Monday 20 May.

Many thanks
