'On the Air' opens tonight: 6th to 9th November - Tickets available at the door

This production has been a new experience for us. In our regular workshops we have found great interest and enjoyment in improvising and devising both actions and dialogue. So we took a Sherlock Holmes radio script as a core, and built this show around it. Starting in October, we created the actors and production team who make the radio show. We devised their characters, back stories and chequered history with each other. We then put these characters in a stressful live anniversary radio broadcast, lit the blue touch paper and, well you will see the result. It was a challenging but fun time. We hope you enjoy it. Whatever happens, the show must go on...

On the Air

New show devised around a Sherlock Holmes radio script!

Wednesday 6th to Saturday 9th November
7.30pm for 8pm start

The On the Air cast.

This is also a chance to see inside Streatham's beautiful and historic theatre - we are in the upstairs Studio space, but the bar and cafe are in the main auditorium. So come early for a drink!

A special live anniversary performance of a Sherlock Holmes story is performed in an historic radio theatre in front of a live audience. However in this stressful environment, the tensions and conflicts between the members of the radio cast and production team which have built up during the long running series come to a head. The off-mic drama threatens to interfere with the live broadcast, but whatever happens, once on the air, the show must go on...
