LET ME TELL YOU A STORY: Directing Workshop

Led by Lesley Strachan, 7pm for 7.30pm, 10 November at Vinters

Does the audience leave a play confused or energised? Who is responsible for a clear story? The writer? The actor? The director? What defines the critical moment in the play, the scene, your character? How does blocking tell a story visually for the audience? Using the last scene from Deep Blue Sea by Terence Rattigan, we'll see how direction can tell a different story with the same characters and same text. (No experience necessary. If you can read Deep Blue Sea beforehand you'll enjoy it even more!). STC members free, others £3 at the door.

The Devil Rode Back!

Our Halloween show went very well. Pretty much everyone who went into the creepy Streatham Hill Theatre for the tour managed to come out again! Thanks to all who came along and enjoyed the sell-out event.

Our next show?

Now that Halloween is over we will be getting started on our next show, pencilled in for early 2016.

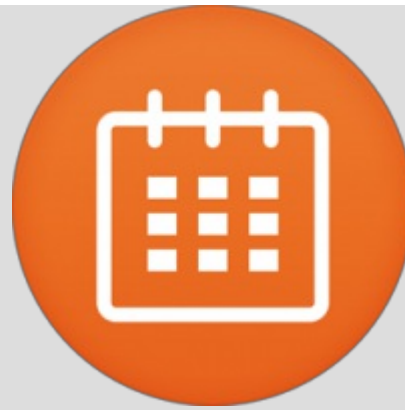

A number of proposals for shows are under way, and if you have a suggestion for something you would like to see, direct, act in or whatever, please drop us a line to info@streathamtheatre.org.uk with whatever level of detail you have. Hopefully we can select a few ideas for our future programme.

Christmas Social: Streatham's Got Talent

Back by popular demand, our final second Tuesday event of the year is a chance to have some light-hearted fun and catch up with fellow theatre lovers in Streatham's unique Vinyl Bar at The Hamlet near Streatham Hill Station. The impromptu programme for last year's event featured renditions of favourite poems, songs, comedy slots and monologues. The evening was rounded off with karaoke and a disco until the early hours.

Always fancied going on stage? Now's your chance to have a go. Join us with your favourite 'party piece' (or just enjoy watching others; performance is not compulsory. To book your slot on our set list for the night e-mail events@streathamtheatre.org.uk with your name and details of your contribution.
