BLOOD AND GORE WORKSHOP

Have you ever wondered how those blood and gore effects are achieved on stage? Wonder no more, because David Harvey will leading a workshop on this very subject. It's not just a question of splashing some tomato ketchup about. Blood has to look convincing on stage, according to the type of injury being represented. David will show you how to create these effects without the audience being aware. You will also get a chance to stage your own gore-fest!

Make sure you wear something you don't mind getting messy - a white shirt is good for showing up blood effects, and bring a change of clothing and a towel unless you want to scare your neighbours on your way home!
